What is a Digital Language Lab and why do you need one?

Digital Language Labs are easy-to-use, interactive software-driven platforms that provide all the prerequisites for acquiring foreign language proficiency efficiently, quickly and cost-effectively. Teacher-student communication is one-on-one and is customizable to individual student needs.

In a traditional foreign language-learning classroom setting, the tendency is to have a "one-size-fits-all" approach where classes are conducted in groups and taught usually by a non-native speaker of the language. This style of teaching is often detrimental to motivating the student in acquiring communicative proficiency in the language. Sometimes, it may even lead to a lack of self-confidence in one's ability to speak the language with confidence.

Smart, digitally-driven and cloud-based

No special equipment or even a room needed

App supports mobile-assisted language learning

Instant access to native-speakers via audio-video aids

Works across Operating Systems

User-friendly, interactive & fun to use

How does the OréllTalk Language Lab work?

OréllTalk allows learners to do educational tasks such as listen to audio recordings, test their vocabulary and learn grammar rules. Teachers can closely monitor every student activity individually and as a class. This enables them to help students more effectively. All four language skills "speaking, listening, reading, and writing" are emphasized in communicative language lab classrooms. One hallmark of a communicatively oriented language lab classroom is the frequent use of pair and small-group activities.

Teacher can communicate one-on-one with individual students in private

Bring weaker students up to speed with the rest of the class quickly

Role-play helps students acquire accents and mannerisms

Hold group discussions and debates

Reduces anxiety, especially for shy and inhibited students

Instant scoring features motivate students

Learn to communicate in any language with OréllTalk

Integrated with some of the most popular 25 languages from around the world, OréllTalk is a way of learning, perhaps the only one of its kind that will forever revolutionize the way you acquire proficiency in a foreign language – simplifying the art of communication forever, effectively.
